Purpose For Information

Calculation of Supplier Demand for EMR Charging guidance now published on the EMRS website

This circular informs Suppliers that we've published a new guidance document 'Calculation of Supplier Demand for EMR Charging' on the EMRS website. This guidance document explains how the calculations of Supplier demand for both Contracts for Difference (CFD) and the Capacity Market (CM) are performed.

The circular also asks Suppliers to provide feedback on this guidance document.

Who should read this guidance?

Suppliers should read this guidance to aid their understanding of what is included within the calculations of Supplier demand for CFD and CM.

What's included in this guidance?

This guidance includes:

- What data is used to perform the calculations for CFD and CM charging and how this data is received?
- An explanation of how Suppliers' demand will be calculated for CFD and CM charging.
- An explanation of which BM Units will be used in CFD and CM charging?
- Details of how Suppliers can verify their calculation of Gross Demand and Net Demand?
- An example to illustrate how these calculations are performed?

Do you have any feedback on this guidance document?

We'd welcome Suppliers' feedback on this guidance document. In particular we would like to know the following:

- What you liked and found most useful?
- What could be improved?
- Any additional comments?
- What further guidance areas would be useful?

Please email contact@emrsettlement.co.uk with your feedback by Friday 28 August 2015. We will use this feedback when developing future guidance documents to publish.

CIRCULAR

Where can I locate the acronyms and definitions used in these publications?

A separate document contains the acronyms and definitions used in our EMRS documents this is located on the EMRS website on both the working practice and guidance pages.

When will related Working Practices or Guidance be published?

We will be publishing further working practice and guidance documents over the coming months to support Suppliers, CFD Generators and Capacity Providers. Once further documents are published we will communicate this via a EMR Circular.

Where can I get more information?
